10 South Loop Park forms part of the award-winning Port Loop neighbourhood, a contemporary canalside community located approximately one mile from Birmingham City Centre. The development has been designed around landscaped public spaces, pedestrian-friendly streets and access to the Birmingham Canal Navigations, creating a distinctive residential environment within easy reach of the city.

Developed through a partnership between Urban Splash, Places for People and Birmingham City Council, Port Loop combines modern architecture with landscaped communal areas, encouraging walking, cycling and outdoor living. A central green space, South Loop Park, provides an attractive focal point for residents, while the surrounding canal towpaths offer opportunities for walking and cycling.

The neighbourhood has been planned with sustainability in mind and features a mix of contemporary town houses and brick-built family homes set within a low-traffic environment. Residents benefit from convenient access to Birmingham city centre, Edgbaston, the Jewellery Quarter, and major road and rail connections, making the development well placed for both commuting and leisure.
