Outside

The lawned frontage has a paved path to the front door and there is gated access at the side to the rear garden. The attractive and private rear garden is South and West facing and from the conservatory has a paved entertaining area overlooking a lawned garden with tiered flower beds having walled edging. There are steps to a raised decked area, another great entertaining space looking back towards the house. The garden also has a substantial greenhouse and garden shed to the side and is all enclosed by fenced boundaries.

Location

Newton-le-Willows is a village and civil parish in the Richmondshire district of North Yorkshire, England, 3 miles (4.8km) west of Bedale. Historically, it is part of the North Riding of Yorkshire and the Wapentake of Hang East. Newton-le-Willows used to have a railway station on the Wensleydale Railway. The station opened with the Bedale to Leyburn extension of the line in 1856. In 1877 the station was renamed as Jervaulx to avoid confusion with the other Newton-le-Willows railway station near to St Helens. The stations on the line were all closed in 1954, but the one at Jervaulx was used beyond the closure date to transport pupils to and from Aysgarth School on excursions. Whilst the Wensleydale Railway has reopened as a Heritage railway, the station has remained closed. Aysgarth School is a boarding Preparatory school located 0.5 miles (0.8 km) to the south-west of the village. It was founded in 1877 and was originally based near Aysgarth but moved to its current site in 1890.
