Page Street, London

A well-proportioned two bedroom apartment, quietly positioned on the fifth floor of this historic Westminster building

This bright and well-arranged apartment occupies a peaceful setting within Jessel House, one of Page Street's most recognisable 1920s red-brick mansion blocks.

Offering an internal floor area of just under 600 sq ft, the property comprises a spacious reception room flooded with natural light from dual-aspect windows, a separate galley kitchen, and two well-sized bedrooms, the larger of which benefits from generous proportions and excellent built-in storage. The bathroom is neatly appointed and there is further scope for incoming purchasers to personalise or modernise to their taste.

Located on the fifth floor (no lift), the flat enjoys a sense of openness and elevation, while the communal parts of the building retain much of their original character. Residents benefit from a secure entry system and access to communal outdoor spaces.

Page Street lies within easy reach of the green spaces of St James's Park and the River Thames, as well as the superb transport links at Westminster, St James's Park and Victoria stations. The area is rich in architectural heritage and offers a peaceful residential atmosphere moments from the heart of Central London.
